Don Olinger lost his vision to Stargardt's Disease and became legally blind in 1998. At his low point in 2011, he ended his career as a minister, left New York City, and moved into an independent living facility in Florida. He lost hope of living a normal life. Now Don and a "superhero" Labrador named Ralphie make quite a team. They've moved into a new apartment, traveled to New York City, and navigated airplanes, subways, and cabs. Now Don is paying it forward, raising funds and speaking on behalf of our Southeastern Guide Dogs as he shares his inspiring journey.
